

This method is a way of integrating our home, inner, and world gardens, so that our practice of Watering can be imbued with groundedness, joy, and context. There are many disciplines interdependent within this approach. If you have something to contribute to this, please reach out! This is a practice. We are learning and practicing. Together!

